West of Queant and Near Cherisy Large Salients Were Driven Into Line and Village of Fresnoy and Enemy Positions North and South of Village and Trench System North of Oppy, Captured

LONDON, May3.—"Fierce fighting occurred throughout the day from west of Queant to north of Fresnoy, four miles east of the village of Vimy," said the official report from British headquarters in France, issued tonight. This is on a front of about 12 miles.

The enemy again employed large reserves of men and guns, and delivered repeated counter-attacks practically along the whole battle front. These hostile forces suffered heavily from our concentrated artillery and machine gun fire, both while assembling prior to the attack and during the actual assault.

'In the face of obstinate resistance our troops this morning penetrated a sector of the Hindenburg line west of Queant, and have maintained themselves there all day against constant and powerful counter attacks.

"Further progress was also made in the neighborhood of Cherisy astride the Arras-Cambrai bank of the Scarpe, where the positions which changed hands frequently and were defended with great determination, are now in our possession.

"On the left of the battle front we captured the village of Fres noy and the enemy's positions south and north of Fresnoy, on a front of two miles. We also gained a footing in the enemy's trench system north of Oppy.

'Progress was made at other points, and the fighting continues. "In addition to the enemy's severe losses in killed and wounded. we captured several hundreds of German prisoners.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, May 3. via London—(Frona a Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press).—After four days of calm, fighting on a large scale was resumed on a wide front today and more important strategical points fell into British hands, including the village of Fresnoy, several miles north of the Scarpe river, and the ground about Cherley, some distance south of that somewhat insignificant stream.

Between Fontaine-Les-Croisilles and Bullecourt, about six hundred yards more of the original Hindenburg line, which ran from Gueant in a northwesterly direction towards Arras, was penetrated and rolled up. This fighting was close to the Queant Hindenburg line new emergency trench system, extending north from there to Drocourt. Work on this new system is proceeding with feverish haste, necording to prisoners, and the study of their occupying the new line before it is ready for prolonged defensive action.

Canadians Push Forward

At the north of the line, the Canadian Fresnoy.

At leux and Fresnoy had been swathed about with great defensive works and numberless loops of barbed wire. The Fresnoy garrison fought with great bitterness and it was not until the Canadians had practically surrounded the village that the survivors, cut off within, surrendered, The number of prisoners taken here was 200 men and seven officers. One of the officers spoke excellent English, and as a Canadian officer was conducting him to the rear he asked to see the positions from which the Germans were driven during the storming of Vimy Ridge on April 9. He marvelled at the situation and asked what Canadian division took Covered Nearly 18 Miles.

Today's range of operations covered virtually 18 miles, aithough the pressure was not exerted over this entire front. There was artillery activity at all points, however, and the stronger German positions were fairly dehared with shells.

The fighting began just before dawning continued throughout a day of glorious sunshine. The troops moving in in support of those actually in the firing line passed along roads whose overhanging trees were tipped with the first fresh green leaves of the repewed life of spring. The fields back of the battle front were yellow with cowslips and dandelions; birds were singing joyous, full-throated melodies. A warm east wind stiered up great clouds of dust, and the men were white with fine chaik powder blown from the roads.

clouds of dist, and the western horizon the sads.

Terrible Effect of Gunfire

As the marching columns reached the battle zone, however, all was changed. The trees became only gaunt, black skeletons, the once fair field have been pitted and scarred and withered under the shell fire antil the carth itself was killed by the poisonous blasts and no living thing could grow thereon, even under this first warm impulse of the new season. The only melodies were the deep threated roars of cannon, the whine of shells, the whistle of bullets.

Under the soft light of a May moon the British guns roared the artillery preparation at intervals during the night, but it was not until the lunar fays had disappeared beyond the western horizon that the real bony seasons beyond. In its intensified Hun Morale Better.

This same officer asserted that the morale of the troops opposite the British front was better than during the battle of the Somme. He said the Germans seldom see their aeroplanes about. They also seem to have been sorely in need of artillery support during the last three weeks. There had been much complaint about the lack of this support and the infantrymen had begun to regard themselves merely as targets for the British artillery. The officer declared that the feeling was all changed now, and that the Germans believe their artillery equal to any. Oddly enough German shells begun to pitch about the prisoners' collecting station with deafening reports, so characteristic of the German high explosives, and the Germans had to be moved to a safer spot.

The prisoners taken at Frensnoy were all Prussians. Two fresh regiments had come into the Fresnoy trenches last night, for a great German counter attack on Arleux this morning. Needless to say, their plans were a bit upset by the British attack. Good progress was made east of Guemappe, along the Arras-Cambrai road, and Brittish troops pushing through Cherisy, south of that road, swept several hundred yards beyond their first objectives.

Then the guns settled into barrage work as the troops stole out from their forward trenches, or shallow shelters hastily dug into the ground during the more recent advances.

It was still half an hour before the dawn, and the morning mists gave a deeper density to the darkness.

Hard Fighting from First
There was stiff fighting from the very first and everywhere along the line the Germans offered desperate resistance. Since the battle of Arras began on Easter Monday the Germans have concentrated great numbers of guns opposite the British and lately they have been firing with almost reckless extravagance. Much of the shooting has been absolutely blind since the British took all of the high ridges, the Germans being unable to get more than momentary observation with airpianes and balloons.

This morning the British creeping barrage firs, which swept like a great trelliswork of exploding shells in

OTTAWA, May 3.—Continuation of but instead there was a decidedly lively debate on the cost of living.

It was brought on by George Kyte, of Richmond, who moved the adjournment of the house to discuss the advisability of taking immediate steps to stop the advance in the price of flour by reducing the price to an amount equal to the price received by the farmer for his wheat, plus the cost of milling and distribution, and to climinate stock manipulation.

Mr. Kyte spoke briefly but precipitated a long debate. He blaned

Hon. T. W. Crethers in reply, said that the situation was being watched by the officials of the labor department. On noticing the big advance in flour prices he had at once despatched Mr. O'Connor, the commissioner in charge of the high cost of living inquiries, to proceed to Montreal to look into the cause. If governmental action was necessary it would be taken.

Sir Thomas White in a lengthy speech said that high prices were due to world conditions. He announced that Eir George Foster while in Washington would discuss the matter of wheat prices with the American authorities. Any action would have to be taken jointly by both countries.

W. F. Cockshutt, Conservative member for Brantford, supported Mr. Kyte's motion and recommended the appointment of a food dictator. He said the cost of living was the most pressing problem in Canada.

Other speakers included Hon. Arthur Meighen, A. K. McLean, W. F. Carroll, F. B. Carvell, W. H. Bennett, J. G. Turriff, Archie McCoig and Donald Sutherland Shortly before 11 c'clock the motion was declared "lost on division," and H. Boulay resumed the budget debate.

Provisional Government Sends Note to Entente Allies Assuring Them That Change in Government Will Afford No Pretext For Slackening Efforts in Common Struggle—Document is Forwarded by Foreign Secretary Milukoff to the Allied Powers

(By Morning Bulletin Lensed Wire) PETROGRAD, May 3, via London. -The Russian provisional governnent has sent to the Russian repreentatives in the entente allied countries a note assuring the allies that the change in government in Russia cannot afford a pretext for any slack-ening on the part of Russia in the common struggle of all the entente

The note, which is dated May 1 and rigned by Foreign Secretary Milukoff, instructs the various diplomatic representatives to the allied countries to transmit the following communication;

"The provisional government of Russia published on April 27 a manifesto to Russain citizens wherein it explained the views of the government of Russia as regards the objects to be attained in the war. Efforts to Sow Discord
"Our enemies have striven lately to sow discord among our allies by propagating absurd stories regarding the alleged intention of Russia to

No Slackening to Take Place

"The declaration of the provisional government, being imbued with the new spirit of free democracy, naturally cannot afford the least pretext for assumption that the demolition of the eld structure has entailed any slackening on the part of Russia in the common struggle of all the allies.
"On the contrary the nation's determination to bring the world war to a decisive victory has been accentuated owing to the sense of responsibility which is shared by all in general and each one of us in particular.

"This spirit has become still more active from the fact that it is concentrated on the immediate task, which touches everybody so closely, of driving back the enemy who invaded our territory. It is understood, and the annexed document so expressly states, that the provisional government in safeguarding the right required for our country, will maintain a strict regard for its engagements with the allies of Russia.

Confident of Lasting Peace

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, May 3 (by the Canadian Overseas correspondent).—Stories of prisoners and of our own wounded as to what occurred today in Fresnoy and the trenches which protected it, agree that the enemy who, as at Arleux, had taken over the defence only a few hours before the assault, had largely sought shelter from the feaful shell fire to which he was subjected by descending into deep dugouts and the cellars of houses. Our infantry, following closely behind the bursting shells of our barrage fire, reached the enemy's dugouts before he could emerge. For the occupants of the dugouts that meant either surrender 'at once or a horrible death by bombing. Were Cut off by Canadians. the famous Hindenburg line.

Some of the Germans holding a trench to the north of Fresnoy did emerge and begin to fight. They speedily discovered that the Canadians after passing over the wire and trench system, had posted men between the front line trench and the enemy's supports, cutting off the Germans in the front from all chance of securing help through reinforcement. The men thus cut off were from the Rheinish provinces of Prussia. Practically an entire company of them surrendered under these circumstances, through their officers.

the river was clearing, so silent was the process. Yet, in the night the ice pilled on the shore by the government ferry to a height of 25 feet and made a picturesque sight. The movement, however, was only local, for there was no sign of movement three miles above the town until Randay when large flows of ice went sailing down the river. All Monday and today the stream of ice passed by in a continual pack and boats, risking getting through, do so at great peril.

Louis White, the Dunvegan mail man, came across, on Monday afternoon, in a boat heavily loaded with passengers and meat beside the mail. The men admitted that they would not risk that much aevin. The landing is also rather unpleasant for, except at the banks of the river and landing has to be made in the mud of the mouth of the Heart.

To clear a way for the ferry, men have been blasting heavily since Saturday but the movement of the stream does more than dynamite and, with the river rising, the big jam will no doubt soon move away. Mr. Krein expects to have the ferry running by the end of this week.

The Hudson's Bay boat the S.S. Athabasca, is ready for the water and blasting is being resorted to there to make way for the launching of the steamer. Wire reports from Hudson's Hope yesterday are to the effect that Monday morning the ice at that point was firm and that people were crossing it. With the river clearing, however, from Dunvegan and west the ice will not last long further up stream.

On the west side, considerable ice has been left on the shore, and this stands in the way of the launching of the steamers. D. A. Thomas and the Northland Call; but the river rose two feet Monday and is still rising so that this ice will probably float away today or tomorrow and make the launching of these boats nossible.

Chicken pox has broken out in the town, and the school is closed in consequence. In spite of the fact, many infected youngsters are running around the streets, and naturally spreading the infection. On the authority of a prominent storekeeper, we understand that natives from Trout and Mosquito Lakes are coming to town to trade, and they report similar outbreaks at their settlement, even amongst grownup people. There is no one here with authority to quarantine, or order sanitary improvements. Now that the ground is bare of snow, all kinds of authority to quarantine, or order sanitary improvements. Now that the ground is bare of snow, all kinds of accumulated refuse, manure, etc., are exposed, even a dead dog, lying close to the lake. As it appears to be nobody's business to remove the same, either the provincial police should be held responsible for the removal of such nuisances, which are a danger to public health, or a local health officer should be appointed immediately.

Another matter that needs strict controlling is the large fish industry here, which has to dispose also of a great deal of refuse. Besides this, during the very hot weather, in summer, there is also a large amount of dead fish floating around, and finally washed up on shore, where it slowly decays. Two summers ago the mounted police collected in one day, over 300 decaying fish from the shore at the settlement, and burnt them. We have an efficient local physician who knows the conditions and the people, and if he could be induced by the government to act as health officer, the public health would be safeguarded, and any damage of a repetition of Delia he could be induced by the government to act as health officer, the public health would be safeguarded, and any damage of a repetition of Delia would be avoided. Besides this, Lac la Biche is an ever-growing summer resort, one of the most beautiful lakes in Alberta. Large investments of many thousands of dollars have been made in the erection of hotels for regular and summer trade, and, by all indications, we can anticipate a very great patronage this summer. The Jesuit College has built a vacation house for the pupils and teachers of the college, and it has been intimated to us that the returned soldiers' association is figuring upon erecting a summer camp here for convalescent soldiers. All these people and interests have an absolute right to demand the strictest supervision of this place by a health officer, because if anything should happen at Lac la Biche, similar to what happened at Delia, or even the smallest doubt should enter the mind of the public as to the health of Lac la Biche (and so far, we pride ourselves on this) it would mean ruin to all those investments to make Lac la Biche the health and lake resort of Alberta.

Mr. Alkens tells of a small river connecting the Athabasca Lake with the Peace which has a double flow This tributar is only 25 miles long and has a normal fall of about eight feet in that distance. But when the Peace is at high water, the Peace is higher than the Lake and the flow is from the Peace to the Lake. Navigators coming from Lake Athabasca to the Peace, finding the stream of this little tributary running against them will turn back and get out another way for the current of the stream is very strong.

Magistras Belcher returned on Monday, having taken the opportunity to travel on a speeder from McLellan, doing the distance in two hours.

The provincial police and Mr. Alex.

This mystery of the north is easily explained this time. Firstly, of course, the cance was no cance at all; it was a raft made by a person or persons who had raided one of the A. G. W. railroad coaches nerth from here, which is close to the Hart river. By the indications, and why, and because. The raiders was the course of the door and the lock, and like good Tammany Hall politicians, had taken everything in sight, even that which is close to the cache, pi oil. The intention of the raider must have been to float down the Hart river, in tothe Owl river, and from thence to the "robbers' roost" on some lonely homestead on the north end of Lac la Biche. However, he got stuck on the rocks of the shallow Hart river, and made a disorderly retreat into his fortification, leaving his loot behind. But for the winter's snow and the frozen ground, Alex. Johnson, an old-time hunter, the very counterpart of Fenimore Cooper's "clather Stocking," would have tracked him to his lair.

The regular train service to the end of the stuch has been discontinued, and as freight accumulates for McMurray a train will be made up and sent. The A. & G. W. railroad has done a great deal to improve the roadbed along the line. The trains are very comfortable and neat and clean, and make accurate time both going and coming, and the express service run in connection with the railroad is indeed a great convenience. For a newly-built railroad they have done remarkably well.

in connection with the railroad is indeed a great convenience. For a newly-built railroad they have done remarkably well.

For the convenience of Lac la Biche people the McArthur railroad has made arrangements with the Grand Trunk Telegraph Co. by which telegrams can be given into the Edmonton office of the G.T.P. and then transmitted over the wire to the A. & G.W., and from thence here. This service is now very efficient and is the quickest way of communicating with Lac la Biche. Several wholesale houses, apparently not knowing this quick way of sending telegrams, are sending them by the government telegraph to Plamondonville, thus causing a delay of days. The A. & G.W. gervice is greatly appreciated.

Thirty-Five University of Alberta Students Awarded Degrees At Convocation on Thursday

Inspiring Addresses Given on University's Work in Field of Education Field of War—Convocation Address is Delivered by Major O. M. Biggar—Chancellor Mr. Justice Stuart Gives Interesting and Uplifting Talk, and President Tory Reviews Work of Year.

The assembly hall in the main university building witnessed an interesting and impressive scene at three Thursday afternoon when at the seventh annual convocation of the University of Alberta degrees were conferred on thirty-five students of the institution and the award of scholarships, prizes and medals were made, as part of the program which brought as part of the program which brough as part of the program which brought togethor many of the most prominent men of the province and which was an occasion for inapiring addresses on the university's work in the field of education and the field of war.

The report of President Tory, the convocation address by Major O. M. Biggar, and the Chancellor's address by Mr. Justice Stuart were themes eioquently dealt. with by the speakers, the line assembly hall being filled with people from the city and district, and students and their friends, all of whom faced most inclement and disagreeable weather conditions in order to take part in the historic proceedtake part in the historic proceed-

The Academic Procession, to The Academic Procession.

The academic procession to the stage of the assembly hall was headed by His Honor the Lieut. Governor and Chancellor, followed by the members of the senate of the university and the graduating class. Heavily bedecked in flowers was the stage, whereon were seated the Lieut. Governor, the Chancellor, President Tory, Hon Chas. Stewart. Principal Dyde. Principal Riddell, Major Biggar, Dr. Alexander and Dean Howes. The degrees were conferred by the Chancellor with the exception of the Lieut. Governor's gold medal for the study of Shakespeare, this being presented to the winner, Norman A. Clark, by His Honor himself. Each recipient of a scholarship or prize was given a round of hearty applause by the other graduates.

himself. Each recipient of a scholarship or prize was given a round of Chancellor's Address.

Particularly impressive was the address of Mr. Justice Stuart. The Chancellor referred to the occasion as beins, the third of its kind at the university since the tragedy of the great war fell upon the land. In solemn and heart-stirring words he paid a tribute to the memory of those from the university whom they had at one time hoped to have seated in the graduating class before him, but who in offering up their galiant lives in France were come into degrees more lofty and lasting than any which it was in the power of earthly institutions to bestow. All were thinking, he felt sure, of the home men in the titanic struggle overseas, of those university students who were undersreaduates now in a more terrible study than they had porhaps ever here conceived. It was not hard to appreciate what difficulties the faculty had been forced to labor under during the year in the midst of such distractions, but he was proud of their spirit in carrying on. "For the work must be carried on by us at home," said the Chancellor, "in order that those who follow after us may not suffer through our faltering. We must not forget that what we experience is but a passing phase of life—there will be other graduation classes in each of the years to come, and other faculties and other senates, and though it may be hard to finance and see the work through such times as these we must do it, for it must be done. The measure of our stewardship and our devotion to duty will be judged thirty or forty years hence, not today."

Chancellor Stuart took the occasion to refer to the study of law, which he regretted to say was but sinserly touched unon as a subject of general instruction in the universities of ioday. No subject would more warrant the devotion of time and money. As the world is regulated by law, economics are effected by it, and distribution of properties depends upon it, so sh

legal principles at stake.
Dr. Tory's Report

In his report, which was also submitted to the Chancellor and members of the University Senate at a meeting during the forencen, President Tory told of the satisfactory progress which had been made by the university within the year, although the student attendance had fallen off as a result of the war conditions. And in respect to the war the president was able to give some inspiring records. The honor roll carried approximately 200 names, in addition to which many men joined the university units under the acgis of the university units under the acgis of the university. He was able also to report that in addition to appointments in the British army no less than thirty-six men who enlisted as privates from the university have been appointed to commissions. Ten men have joined the Royal Flying Corps and the ned the Royal Flying Corps and joined the Royal Flying Colynamics with the Military Cross has been awarded to Lieut. S. J. Davies and Lieut. W. E. James, while Lieut. B. Loptson has been mentioned in the despatches.

Only Twelve Out of 100 Left.

Dr. Tory in further reference to the plendid response which has been nade by University of Alberta men to the war, reminded the audience that of the one hundred members of the class of '17 which had begun the course four years before but twelve remained to receive their degrees on this occasion. Over sixty of these who would otherwise have undoubtedly been present to obtain scholastic honors had gone overseas with military units.

Program of Convocation

The program of the convocation ex-ercises was as follows: Academic procession at 3 p.m. to the assembly hall, with the singing of "O Canada."

Convocation Address

Major Biggar in his convocation address referred to his membership on the board of governers of the uni-versity during six years as being of the versity during six years as being of the most plessant character, during which he had followed with great interest the general progress of its growth and its great benefit to the educational life of the province. He spoke chiefly of this as "formal education."

"I speak of formal education by intention. TEACHERS' SALARIES AGAIN TO BE DISCUSSED BY BOARD

Special Meeting of School Trustees To Be Held Next Thursday Evening-Religious Education Question Is Also To Be Taken Up Again in Near Future, the Board Decides passed by the Public School Board at its meeting last night, and decided upon after considerable discussion.

upon after considerable discussion.

It was also arranged that on Thursday next a spectar meeting of the board should be called to go into the question of teachers' salaries, and certain of the staff employed by the board, also the allocation of the reductions made in this year's estimates. When the board considered the estimates for the year it was settled that reductions should be made in various departments, but when the reductions should actually be made was not finally decided and the matter has remained in absyance since.

Was Issue of Election The subject of religious instruction was brought up by Trustee Douglas, who remarked that it was a question that the Board had to deal with, as it somewhat of an issue at the last

A communication was read from C.

E. Evans, agent for A. M. Thompson, the owner of property bordering and west of the Alex. Taylor school, comprising 50-5-100ths acre of ground, and offering to sell it to the board at $30,000 for a clear title deed.

This property is desirable to complete the frontage of the school, but the board decided to answer that they could not entertain the offer at the price.

The board decided that they could not accede to the request for the use of McKay avenue school by the Alberta Dragoons, on the ground that train-ing of bodies of men in the building might be detrimental to the structure. Ask to be Believed of Discount.

An application was received from the two school nurses that their salaries should not se subject to the 10 per cent. discount. The board salaries should not be subject to the 10 per cent. discount. The board granted an increase or five per cent. In the case of salaries received under the first and second year schedule, to be effective from January 1st.

As Arbor Day has been taken from the list of statutory holidays, the schools will not be closed on May 11th.

Flags for School receme

Chairman Rea and Trustee Duggan reported on their visit to the Teachers' Convention at Calgary, and they were appointed as a committee to act on behalf of the board in the formation of a Trustees' Association or section, to work in conjunction with the Teachers' Association.

Superintendent's Report.

School Superintendent Carpenter reported the total enrolment at the schools for the month of April as 8,709. He added:

"There has been a failing off in the

There has been a failing off in the attendance in the city schools for this month, apparently due to the annual exodus to the country. Exceptions to this will be found in a few schools, but the net decreuse under that of the previous month is 151, while, as compared with the corresponding month last year, the increase is 426. Quite a large number of boys and girls have taken advantage of the special concessions granted by the department of education and are actively engaged in assisting to put in the spring crop. The Victoria High school reports a larger number of girls leaving than of boys. The examination of teachers taking the elementary senior aris course, under month, apparently due to the annual elementary senior arts course, under Supervisor Hughes, was held during the month, and fifty-five teachers ap-piled for standing, all of whom at-tained the standard and are entitled to the standing granted by the depart ment of education."

The medical officer, Dr. Dunn, stated that 1,017 inspections had been carried out during April, of which 171 or 16.18 per cent. were found defective in some respect, exclusive of defective teeth. There were 226 cases of defective teeth, or 22.22 per cent.

HOGS SELLING FOR $15.85 OFF CARS

Prediction Is Made That Sixteen Cent Hogs Will Be Reached Today

The extraordinary record top price of sixteen cents per pound, for extra select butcher hogs off cars at the Edmonton stock yards, is predicted for Friday by some of the dealers and those in close touch with the hog market. On Thursday a few extra select hogs sold at $15.75 to $15.85 off cars and at $15.75 to $15.85 off cars and at $15.50 on a fed and watered basis. Some hogs brought in by local farmers went at from $15.40 to $15.85 off wagons. A few months ago Steve Swift, the well known swine breeder, made the much doubted prediction of the 15 cent hog. That record was passed long since and until the next crop of young pigs is fattened and ready for market there is no telling when the big drop will come. With grain for hog feed soaring the price of hogs also climbs upwards.

John Macdonald, of D. R. Fraser Co. Presented by J. A. McDougall

The Rotary spirit as well as catching the 'young idea" in Edmonton, is now infecting what has been described as the more staid citizens.

At the weekly luncheon on Thursday, J. A. McDougall, who has not long since become a member of the Rotary Civb, introduced as a new member another old-timer and well-known citizen in the person of John Macdonald, a member of the lumber firm of D. R. Fraser & Co. Mr. Mc-Dougall said that he made the introduction with a great deal of pleasure as he had known Mr. Macdonald ever since he came to the city some 15 years ago and had since become one of their prominent citizens. When he tad "me doots" about it, but he had a "me doots" about it, but he had been to three of the meetings and the more he saw of the club the better he thought of it, and he was sure that Mr. Macdonald would be the same.

Visitors to Luncheon.

Visitors at the luncheon were W. Dawson, district manager for R. C. Dun & Co., Major Kirby, president of the Calgary Rotary club, J. Halstead, C.P.R. freight agent, Calgary, F. S. Saunders of the McKillop Boot & Shecompany, R. Gardiner, confectioner, of Winnipeg, and T. Draper, of Petrolia, Ont.

of Winnipeg, and T. Draper, of Petrolia, Ont.

An urgent appeal was made to support the Board of Trade membership campaign next week, and also to attend the board of trade dinner on Monday night.

Matron To Speak.

As a luncheon date would fail on May 24, it was arreaged to have the luncheon for that week on Wednesday, May 23, and on this occasion the matron of the Children's Day Nursery will be invited to attend and give some account of the work. The Rotary club is greatly interested in the work of looking after the children and it has the intention of helping the nursery. A report on the subject was made by C. H. Graham, who suggested that the matron be invited to attend a meeting.

It was announced that the Hudson's Eay Co, had given permission for the club to use certain of their vacant lots for cultivation under the club's schemo for encouraging the work of the Vacant lots Grant Lots Garden club. A. J. Me-

Tells of Technical Work.

A highly interesting account of the development of the Edmonton Technical school was give- by J. M. Clendenen, principal of the school, who asked for support in extending the chemistry side of the work. He pointed out how necessary this was for the commercial credit of the province, saying that before the war. Germany had 200,000 people employed in chemistry work alone. She practically controlled the output of dyes, perfumes and explosives, etc., manufactured from coal products. Now in Alberta they had five-sevenths of the total coal area of the world, and in the north they had their tar sands, so that if Alberta was going to be a manufacturing community they saw how necessary it was to encourage the

A. M. Frith was chairman for the day, and a gift of a new variety of "Cyco" cigars was received from H. Shaw, of the Edmonton Cigar Co.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS LECTURE ON LLOYD GEORGE

Liberal Club Rooms on South Side Are Filled to Doors Last Evening

Rev. A. M. McDonald delivered a splendid lecture on "Lloyd George" at the monthly meeting of the South Side Liberal Club, held in its new rooms last night. It was a masteriy effort, and greatly enjoyed by the large crowd present. The meeting was a most successful affair, and the rooms were packed to the very doors.

Previous to Mr. McDonald's lecture, D. W. Warner, candidate for the federal house, made a speech. He culogized the Sifton government, and praised the legislation which had been brought down at the recent sitting of the provincial legislature. He endorsed R. B. Douglas, the Liberal candidate for South Edmonton, as being a man eminently fitted to represent the constituency. He predicted the return of the Sifton government and the Liberal candidates for the Federal house at the next election. L. T. Barclay and R. B. Douglas proposed and seconded a vote of thanks to Mr. McDonald which was carried unanimously and enthusiastically.

An enjoyable musical program was also given, consisting of songs by Miss Marquis and Miss McClure, accompanied by Miss Marion McDonald, and a piano solo by Mrs. L. B. Lint.

SIX-DAY SHOW THIS SEASON

Directors Meet to Hear Reports of the Prize List Committees

For the past two weeks the various prize list committees have been meeting in the Edmonton Exhibition offices and their reports and recommendations were laid before a meeting of the directors held yesterday, May 2nd. Increases were made for horses, cattle and dairy products. Some slight changes were made in the other sections, but not of any very great importance. The Horticultural department was changed to meet the conditions prevailing in July, as opposed to the latter date on which the fair was farmerly held.

The building committee was authorized to proceed with the tranformation of the building formerly used for dogs, into an auxiliary to the Manufacturers' building for school work, art and allied exhibits. The building will be raised three feet, and properly floored; large entrances will be made and a front corresponding in design with the Manufacturers' Building will be added.

A request was received from the Kennel Club for permission to conduct a dog show on the grounds during exhibition week, and it was left to the executive committee to deal with this request.

New sidewalks will be laid from the main entrance to the Manufacturers' building, and in front of the buildings occupied by the soldiers; the sidewalks will all be placed in good regar.

This year a six-day show will be conducted, opening on Monday July 5th, instead of Tuesday, as heretofore; the days of the exhibition will be as

EXPRESS THEIR CONFIDENCE

"WIN-THE-WAR" CONVENTION IS ENDORSED IN EDMONTON, BUT

BY A VERY NARROW MARGIN Vote of Meeting Stood Seventeen in Favor to Pifteen Opposed—Col. Malloy Makes Strong Plea That Northern and Central Alberta Be Represented, and Says Movement is to Promote National Unity which has been called to meet at Montreal on May 24th was endorsed at a meeting of representatives of Edmonton and northern and central Alberta held in the palm room of the Macdonald hofel last night, but it was a narray squeak. The vote was seventeen in favor to fifteen against, with several not voting.

-Mayor Henry, J. E. Brown and Others Speak in Opposition

Col. L. Malloy, the blind hero of the South African war, who is organ-ising the country on behalf of this movement, made a vigorous and elo-quent plea for this part of the prov-ince to give its adherence to the idea Strong opposition developed, led by Strong opposition developed, led by Mayor Henry, President Brown and Secretary Fisher of the board of trade and other citizens and a warm discus-tion ensued which lasted until nearly sion ensued which lasted until nearly 11 o'clock before a decision was reached. Col. Malloy was very anxious to taxe it made unanimous and a motion to that effect, proposed by H. H. Hull, was submitted by former Leutenant Covernor Bulyea, who was in the chair. But several voices were registered in the negative against even this so that Edmonton's opinion of the utility and efficacy of the convention stands practically unchanged from the time when the proposal as advanced by Arthur Hawkes, a few weeks ago, was delicately "turned down" here.

Col. Malloy Explains.

Col. Malloy Explains.

Col. Malloy Explains.

Col. Malloy Explains.

Col. Malloy who is a forcible and pleasing speaker, and is evidently fired with the warmest enthusiasm regarding the project addressed about 50 men and women, mostly from the city but some of whom were from out of town, last night. He said that the idea was that there should be hold in the immediate future a national convention of 1,200 representative Canadians, on the 10,000 footleyel above party politics, who should constitute a cross-section of Canadian coninion. The purpose of this convention was to deal with the great problems and questions which confronted the nation now and which would arise after the war.

Canada, he said, was composed of heterogenous and various races and geographically divided into accame whose cronomic needs were inconflict. There was a lack of national unity. Isolated groups were in opposition to each other. The convention was intended to accomplish a general "ge".

ting together" of these warring interests and ideas.

A General Mandate.

It had no mandate from the Canadian people except in the general assumpton of Canadian patriotism. It was a different thing to a general election which, the colonel described as "two opposing streams of misropresentation." It was a development of demogracy.

of democracy.

Last To Endorse Movement.

The colonel said that Northern Alberta was the last territory to endorse the movement and he urged such an endorsation.

"Dees it propose a national government?" was asked.

"It is distinctly against that in the eastern provinces," was the reply. The speaker added that it would be a matter for the convention to decide for itself, "If we can't get national unity we are not getting what we are paving for in blood and treasure." he gald.

unity we are not getting what we are paving for in blood and treasure." he raid.

Col. Malloy compared the convention to the convention which brought forth confederation, whose sentiments had crystalized into 90 per cent of Canada's legislation today.

Mayor Henry made some inquiries respecting the organization of the gathering. Col. Malloy replies that there was to be a national executive consisting of eight outstanding representatives from each province, plus one additional for each four seats in parliament after distribution. This executive would meet May 1st and prepare a sort of agenda, after concultation with the provincial representation. The convention itself was to meet May 24th. Proportional representation was not to be adhered to very strictly and forty or fifty or even sixty of the best and most representative men and women in the province would be admitted to membership in the convention, if they could stitend.

Mayor Henry Opposes,

ince would be admitted to membership in the convention, if they could attend.

Mayor Henry Opposes.

The mayor expressed sharn dissert to the program. He declared that a conference of 1,200 persons would not set very far in two days. He failed to see any great benefit or any permanent solution of the country's problems. There was a possibility that its recommendations might be in conflict with the policies of the precent government. There was a tendency to confuse the people. The government had the mach'nery and the data and the experts to deal with these questions which were more efficient than any convention could be.

The mayor also declared that the convention was not representative in a large sense and that it did not have the mandate of the people. Our one cutstanding business at the presentime, he asserted, was to win the war (applause). If we didn't win it, then someone else would probably settle these questons for us. Nothing else should be allowed to distract the aftention of the people or to interfere with that one, vital object.

Col. Malloy insisted that the purpose of the convention was to bring about that very object. It was called the "win-the-war convention." The object was to get people together, not to see what they could get but what they could assume. The convention was to pring about that very object. It was called the "win-the-war convention." President J. E. Brown Opposes.

President J. E. Brown, of the board of trade, objected that questions cauli not be settled in two or three days that would require as many years to work out, but Col. Malloy insisted that as boards of trade did, the idea was to get an expression of public sen

"The undersigned Separate School supporters, resident in South Edmonton, have learned through the Edmonton press that what is alleged as being a delegation of Separate School supporters appeared before the Separate School Board at its last meeting and made certain objections with regard to the administration of the local Separate Schools, and with regard to the nuns in connection therewith.

"We do not know whether or not the representations of the said alleged delegation were correctly reported, or if the foregoing correctly sets forth the objections made, but wish to state as follows:

"That the said alleged delegation was not, in our opinion, at all representative of the Separate School Supporters of the Edmonton School District.

He replied that he was sure the convention would rever be unanimous for conscription; it would be the questions upon which it did agree that would be of value.

did agree that would be of value.

A. T. Stephenson, of Red Deer, said that he was not convinced that the convention was going to help win the war. Col. Malloy had said that Quebec was the best organized province for the movement, but certainly Quebec was not the best organized province to win the war.

The reply was that by the representatives of Quebes and the other involves getting together a better understanding would be reached and the national spirit fostered everywhere.

"That we earnestly desire the sisters to continue in association with the said schools and with Separate schools generally in the said school district, which association with the said schools and with Separate schools generally in the said school district, which association we consider of the greatest importance, benefit and advantage to the children attending Separate schools."

The Board has had the assurance of the confidence of its supporters, there is a nutual understanding between the members and Mr. Malone, and the board states that it will enary the services that its possible with the means at its disposal.

Though inclement was the weather on Thursday afternoon there was a hearty response on the part of the public and the Convocation hall of the University of Alberta was well filled at the seventh annual convocation which was held for the awarding of scholarships, prizes and medals and the conferring of degrees. The hall was artistically decorated with palms and potted plants and an orchestra played delightfully while the guests were assembling, striking on the National Anthem as the Lieut, Governor, the Chancellor, the faculty, doctors, and a train of graduates marched up the centre aisle to take their places on the platform or the reserved space in front. It truly was an inspiring sight, gowns of crimson and white, black and gold with the green, crimson, purple, or the white ermine of the hoodshere and there, making a very riot of color, and an academic procession hot soon to be forgotten. The program was carried out to the letter. The singing of "O Canada" was followed by the invocation prayer by the Rev. MRS MURRAY should be put "down" and how?

MRS MURRAY

Eggs are usually put "down" in the fail for several reasons, mainly because they are much better and more easily kept, and, not being the hatching season, there is less danger of the eggs not being strictly fresh. Besides, in the summer, eggs are easily obtained, and there would be no object in packing eggs away when the price is usually at the lowest. Therefore, the early fail is found to be the best time. There are many ways of preserving or "putting dows," but the most popular one in all probability is in water glass. This is a preparation which can be obtained from the store at which you deal, and has the directions for using accompanying. and boll from one to one and a dister hours. with the 101st regiment and who was killed nearly two years ago.

The party of about twenty sat down to a most artistically arranged table, which simply greaned with the abundance of good things upon it.

Expressions of high regard and hope for future success and prosperity for the young couple well presented by Mr. Graham and Mr. Lang on behalt of the friends present.

Also the entire party expressed their great appreciation of the very claborate repast prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Ellison. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Edmonton Richmond, Ind.—"For two years I was so sick and weak with troubles from my age that when going up stairs I had to go very slowly with my hands on the steps, then sit down and the top to rest. The doctor said he thought I should have an operation, and my friends thought I would not live to move into our new house. My daughter asked me to try Lydie E. Pinkhan's Vegetable compound as she had taken it with good results. I did so, my weakness disappeared, I gained in strength, moved into our new home, did all kinds of garden work, shoveled dirt, did building and cement work, and raised hundreds of chickens and ducks. I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and if these facts are useful you may publish them for the beneft of other women."—Mrs. M. O. JORNSTON, Route D. ter. F. E. Harding, the eldest, is with the signal corps. The youngest, H. R. Harding, enlisted at Edmonton about a year ago, when he was a little over 17 years of age. When he reached England the authorities, on learning his age, refused to allow him to go to France. He asked to be transferred to the army service corps and the request was granted. He was a driver in the transport service until February when he managed to get across the channel where he is still a driver. Previous to enlistment both these boys worked on the farm where there are still remaining two other Harding brothers, helping to handle the crop. Pie. H. V. Harding went to Winnipeg in the fall of 1915 to ttend a gas engine school and enlisted in the spring after receiving his diploma.

SGT. HALL WAS A LOCAL ARCHITECT

Sergeant Norman Hall, of Edmonton, reported to have been killed in action, was well known locally as an architect of talent and promise. to qualify as an instructor and passed with honors. But he was not satisfied to remain there and gave up his stripes for the chance of getting into the firing line. He went to France as a private with a Vancouver high-land battalion and won two of his land battalion and won two of his catripes back before he had been in the trenches very long. A brother left very long.

Corporal T. A. Haggerty, of Edmonton, reported killed in action, enlisted with a local battalion in the early part of August, 1915. He leaves a widow and two children under the age of five years. Mrs. Haggerty has returned to England, leaving Edmonton in the early part of December, 1916. She is living at 27 Merthyr street, Cathys, Cardiff, South Wales.

(Continued from Page Three) an mentality, to overcome prejudice and ignorance and to do away with slandering and misunderstanding. He resented the "slandering of Quebec." It was preferable rather to get the French and English-speaking races

Alex. Stuart, K.C., said that the best Alex. Stuart, K.C., said that the best way to win the war was to unite those who were separated. It was not reasonable, in his opinion, to expect French-Canadians to be so enthusiastically devoted to the British empire as men of the British races.

The Resolution, which had been suggested by Col. Malloy, that those present declare themselves to be heartly in sympathy with the proposal to holl a win-the-war conven-tion, and would gladly do all in their power to assist in securing a repre-sentative delegation from central and

Col. E. B. Edwards, in seconding the resolution, said that Canada had reached the stage of a deadlock. The promise of 500,000 men had not been promise of 509,000 mea had not been fulfiled. The British government's offer to buy our wheat had been refused because our farmers refused to be, in the words of their representatives, "made goats of." Speculation was rampant. There were problems to be dealt with now. The difficulties of distance and expense had simply to be overcome.

Several others spoke for or against the motion and a number of questions

Several others spoke for or against the metion and a number of questions regarding the organization and plans of the convention were asked and an-swered in great detail. Secretary Fisher of the board of trade expressed his conviction that the conventic could not have the result anticipate He advocatel leaving the solution these problems to the governmen who had studied them from all as gles and were more competent to dea with them than "a bunch of ama-

"The colonel asked us just now wha "The colonel asked us just now what we were afraid of," said Mr. Fisher. "I am afraid to look foolish. If we endorse this resolution we will not only look but we will feel foolish."

"You ought to have a great deal of sympathy then for the great number of men all over Canada who are feeling foolish this minute," tartly commented the colonel.

Resolution Carried.

When a show of hands was called for, the chairman declared the resolution carried.

"Freckles" Proves To Be Delightful Surprise

Preckles," the dramatization of Gene Porter's well known book, was presented at the Empire Theatro last night and in many ways it was a delightful surprise. Those who are familiar with the book know that its chief charm is its "nature" element, in fact the outhoress herself admits that was her purpose in writing it and therefore one did not expect that the plot would be strong enough to justify a play. But it is and it is further augmented by being translated into a "song play," an innovation to Edmonton audiences this season.

The criticism of it should be in two parts, first from the drama standpoint and secondly from a musical one. It is seldom that the members of a cast, collectively combine such strong dramatic ability and exceptionally fine voices for the different vocal solo numbers that are interwoven in the play themselves would make a very satisfactory concert program.

Jules Velie as Fréckles, the Irish waif, is splendid. His trio of Irish songs in the first act are in themselves very well rendered but here one might venture a slight criticism and that is that all the vocal numbers be rendered between the acts as they take away from the characterization of a particular character.

Freckles is a very happy, interesting, loveable type of an Irish boy, but when he is singing "A Little Bit of Heaven," he is not Freckles, neither is Angel, the girl we follow in the paly when she is singing "A Little Bit of Heaven," he is not Freckles, neither is Angel, the girl we follow in the paly when she is singing "A Little Bit of Heaven," he is not Freckles, neither is Angel, the girl we follow in the paly when she is singing "A Little Bit of Heaven," he is not Freckles, neither is Angel, the girl we follow in the paly when she is singing "A Little Bit of Heaven," he is not Freckles, neither is Angel, the girl we follow in the paly when she is singing "A Little Bit of Heaven," he is not Freckles, neither is Angel, the girl we follow in the paly when she is singing "A Little Bit of Heaven," he is not Freckles, neithe very pleasing manner and has an excellent woice.

Hazel Wood as "Angel" gives a perfect interpretation of the bright, innocent girl we know by that name and in addition to her musical talent she is a fine actress with a crowning touch of being very pretty.

The Duncans, the kind-hearted Scotch folk are also favorites. Harry Duckeson, who impersonates Mr. Duncan, gave two of Harry Lauder's songs in the manner that calls for more, although last night he was under the disadvantage of a "cold." Zenaide Williams, as Mrs. Duncan, the woman who "would be drawed on" made the very best of her part. And of course there was a villain. And of course there was a villain Black Jack, impersonated by Monro lain, and carried off the part with much applause.

The plot throughout is very simple, everybody knows how it will end, that the villain will always be frustrated at the psychological moment, that Freckles will find his long lost parents, but it is a wholesome story, and the Scotch and Irish dialogue throughout is cleverly contrasted and woven into many humorous incidents so that altogether it makes a very so that allogether it makes a very pleasant evening's entertainment. It will be at the Empire the rest of the week.

MONARCH—These city slickers are all the time putting it over on the country boys. Take the case et Jack Dean, for Instance. Mr. Dean, who is the bushand of Fannie Ward, and is seen in her support in the Lasky-Paramount picture, "The School for Husbands," at the Monard Theatre the last three days this week, has been brought up in the rural surroindings of the Lambs' Club, New York, and has never been in any city larger than New York or Parls in his life. Consequently on his recent trip to Tia Juana he fell an easy victim to sharks. Mr. Dean was in front of the betting booth gazing at the horses on the board when he beard a prosperous looking individual directing a jockey to put a two-pound saddle on a certain horse and keep in the lead from the start. By his usual gracious manner Mr. Dean quickly cultivated the nequaintence of the gentleman, giving the instructions, and after much pleading, learned the name of the horse which was to have the two-pound saddle and keep in the lead, and promptly wagered a large sum at the prevailing odds. The horse was detained at the quarter pole and arrived shortly before the start of the next race. Some time later, Mr. Dean thoughtfully asked Director George Melford what was the weight of the lightest saddle used, and was informed it was six to eight pounds. Mr. Dean went out, leaned against a lamp post for some time, then said: "Do you know, I believe those fellows were a couple of touts?" George M. Cohan will be seen in his initial photoplay next week at the Monarch, when he appears on the screen for the entire week in "Broailway Jones," one of his most successful New York plays.

With Patty Arbuckle and Mabel Normand, is a big four reel review, one solid hour of fun, there should not be a motion picture fan in town with a case of blues. For Fatty and Mabel are the two best bets on the screen as blues-chasers. As though that is not enough in the laugh line, a big two reel LkO comedy entitled "Murdered by Mistake" is thrown in fogood measure. When the people get through with this full hour of fun and frolic the operator will flash upon the screen the beginning of the fourth episode of the immensely popular laiversal Serial, "The Voice on the Wire." EMPRESS,—The name of William Farnum has become a byword in Edmonton among theatre-goers, and it will be welcome news to them to know that he is here again today in a new William Fox feature film, "The Man From Bitter Roots," Caroline Lockhart's story, which has a role for a man of virility and strength. And that is the kind of a man william Farnum is. He is big, manly, whole-hearted; he is kind and considerate. He can be as gentle as a lamb or as fierce as a lion, and all aft a moment's notice. In this vehicle Farnum takes the character of a miner, liruce Burt. He is a burly, whole-hearted man, who thinks never of imself but always of his dufies to those dependent on him. Bruce starts out on a hunt for the sister of his former partner to give her the share or the gold dust due her. In the search he tells his story to another man, T. V. Sprudell, who finds the girl, gives her $500, which he says is the share due her from the mine, and starts the Bitter Root Mining Company himself. Then Bruce turns up. He has heard of the scheme of the unscrupulous financier, and is determined to foil it. He has trouble in raising the money to carry along his own project, but manages to do it. Then he finds the girl, tells her the true story and forms a partnership with her. They determine to fight Sprudell to regain their rightful ownership of the nime. A new plant goes up on the Sitter Roots Mining Company's property, it beiongs to Bruce and Helen, the girl who has been swindled. It is searcely completed when a fire sweeps the country,

Young Coast Southpaw Is Setting a Fast Pace With the the Cubs

Have the Chicago Cubs another George Sisler in Walter Ruether, the young coast southpaw?

Ruther made it three straight win

Ruther made it three straight wins for the North Siders in the getaway series against the Pirates, following the pace set by Vaughn and Douglas in the first two combats.

Sitting on a big league bench for the first time and listening to words of encouragement and advice by Manager Mitchell Ruether learned a lot of things, and when he was told to oppose one of the star flingers of the league—Al Maumaux—he never lost his nerve.

while the Pirates were the first to score, on a walk to Schulte, a hit by Hinchman and a double steal. Ruether tightened up like a clam. All told, but six hits came in the first four innings and the other two in the final session, after the Cubs had a one-sided leaf. sided lead.

Les Darcy has suddenly developed a tremendous fighting spirit. He intends to show it in the ring as well as in the trenches. Detroit fans are going to celebrate when Young, keeper of the second sack for the Tigers, comes to town again. His stick work is making pitchers in the American League lie awake nights with Despite war conditions the American people find it hard to do without conveniences. This seems to have crept even into some of our sporting events. Otherwise how can you account for the actions of the young man in Boston who, while running in a marathon the other day rode two of the last three miles of the race in an automobile. At that he only managed to come in fifth. Of course, he was promptly disqualified.

This day is the birthday of the English Derby, the first race having been run on May 4, 1879, when Sir Charles Bunbury's Diomed beat Major Kelly's famous Eclipse and seven other horses. The stakes at the time were 1,025 guineas, or $5,125. It was a mile race and did not attract very much attention. A few years later England, particularly fashionable England, went wild over the Derby, which is the most classic racing event in the world, and was run every year until the outbreak of the present war.

Some very interesting baseball history was made on May 4. Back in 1883 on this day the Kansas City American Association Club for the second time in succession scored 16 runs against the St. Louis Browns. On the same day in the same year Jerry Denny, of Indianapolis, made six hits for a total of ten bases off Galvin and Staley of Pittsburg. Indianapolis won the game. 1894—Baltimore made 26 hits off Sharrot and Daub, pitchers of the Brocklyn team. 1902—George Mullin made his debut in the American League, taking Slever's place on the mound for Detroit. He beat Cleveland, 2 to 1. 1999—Babe Adams beat Mordical Brown in a pitching battle that went to eleven innings, the Pirates beating the Cubs, 1 to 9. 1916—President Taft saw parts of two games being played in St. Louis. On the same day in the same year in a game between Chicago and Pittsburg, Vin. Campbell acted as pinch hitter twice in the eighth inning. 1911—Cleveland players were struck out eleven times by Walsh of the White Sox. At the same time in another part of the country Hans Wagner drove the fans wild with delight by making a home run with the bases full, off Hearn of the Cardinals.

Despite Rube Marquard's medicore pitching in the exhibition

Despite Rube Marquard's mediocre pitching in the exhibition games in the South, Wilbert Robinson is confident he will be one of the mainstays of the Dodger array this seesaon. Marquard was not overworked in the spring training contests. Robble his nursed him carefully, for he expects the Rube to be at his best when the sun begins to shed its warmth on major league diamonds. "The report was circulated shortly after we arrived from the South," declared Robinson, "that I was dissatisfied with Marquard's work in some of the exhibition games with the Red Sox. Nothing could be further from the truth. Rube did all that he was asked to do, and did it in a way that convinced me he would develop his old-time form. I fully epect him to be one of my dependable pitchers this season. The report that he was slipping was asinine. He should be better than ever this season." His pitching staff is the least of Uncle Robie's worries. Jack Combs is in fine condition and counts on winning fifteen or more games. Sherrod Smith, too, is rapidly regaining the form he flashed in the world's series last autumn, and Deli may improve with a little more work. But the most promising of all is Leon Cadore, and it is upon him and Ed Pfeffer that Robble is pinning his faith. Cadore should develop into a first-class performer under the turelage of such a veteran as Robinson. It was the rotund manager of the Dodgers who schooled many of the pitchers that won fame when members of the Giants during his connection with the Polo Grounders, and Robbie has been applying the same treatment to his own players.

FINGER HANDICAP TO PITCHER

danager Stallings says, knows

ED. REULBACH THINKS THIRD

Ed. Reulbach, of the Braves, who, Manager Stailings says, knows more about the actual mechanics of pitening than anybody in the business, says that a pitcher with no third finger on his salary arm would be able to throw a wonderful new curve, the curve which is the dream of every young twirler just starting out. If you have even a stump of the third tinger remaining, it will be impossible to get this curve.

Only an amputation sung up to the hand itself will permit the ball to sitp out of the grasp so as to produce the effect desired, which is the opposite of the natural curve. The natural curve leaves the hand on the side of the natural curve curve would roll out ever the knuckle of the little finger. In either cage, it would be the so-called middle finger, the one next to the index or politting member, which would give the ball the rotary motion which, by producing increased resistance to the air on one side of the sphere, causes it to vary from its straight course into the curve or break" by which the batsman is decived.

The reverse curve of a right-handed

The reverse curve of a right-handed nitcher, which he could produce if he had no third fire— on his pitching hand, would be the same as the medium fast natural curve of a mouth-paw pitcher. Similarly, the revorse curve of a maimed southnaw flinger would be equivalent to Mathewson's fade-away.

so as to produce an effect onposite to that sought in the delivery of the

Of course, the right-hander's fast ball often has an inshoot feature, which he regulates by the spread of his fingers in grasping the ball, but a shoot it is, and not a "hook" or a "slow bender."

Extramid, is too likely to cause a wild bitch.

But the boy of good average etrength and build who has had the nisfortune to lose the third finger of his pitching hand would do well to got in touch with Ed. Reuibach, of the Boston Braves, and to put himself under the instruction of the latter, assuming that Ed, might think well of said hoy and would be willing to undertake to tutor him. Misfortune then might prove to be not without its possible compensations. But to repeat, don't ask the surgeon to amputate! It would hardly be worth whils to lose a finger on the 100 to 1 shot that you might become a winning big leaguer.

Two Main Lines of Education Two Main Lines of Education In dividing the two main lines of education he dealt with first the "Humanities" and finally with that of Science. Humanities had been for years the goal of formal education.
The Greeks and Romans in their systerns of education advanced almost en-turely along this line with the result that the scientific side, excepting that of scientific speculation, was neglectd. As a matter of fact the really cientific side of education had only regun to advance within the last one hundred years, gathering force to a particular extent almost the last genparticular extent almost the last generation.

The reasons for this advance in scientific knowledge and an accompanying deluge of scientific inventions he realized had been the result of spreading literacy through the civilized world and the modern rapid means of communications. These privileges were denied the ages until within recent stages of development. Also as a creature naturally of speculation mankind has now become inquisitive regarding natural phenomena

President Tory's report was in part as follows:

"I have the honor to submit for your information a report dealing with the attendance, scholarship and discipline of the students registered in this University.

Attendance.

In common with all universities of the country we have suffered again a serious decline in student attendance due to for the registration for the year is 305 as against 418 last year. The following facts with respect to registration will be of interest: Number of students 1916-17: Men 220, women 85.

The particular point to notice here is the increase in the number of women students their percentage to the whole students their percentage to the whole students here percentage to the whole students have been guidents. During the year the following new appointments were made by the board of governor:

To the faculty of sgriculture: Mr. A. A. Dowel, B.S. A. of Ames Agricultural College was appointed to the professorably of animal husbandry. Dr. Dowell is a graduate of Ames Agricultural College, the leading school of animal husbandry in America. He comes to us with a brillian record as student and teacher.

Mr. G. S. Culier, B.A., received the spointment to the professorably of field imbandry. Professor Culler is a graduate of Guelph. He spent four years as instructor and assistant in field busbandry in McDonaid College, Quebec, and previous to his appointment here was professor of cereal lusbandry in the University of Saskatchewau. Professor Culler's previous career both as a student and teacher gives us the assistance that our field husbandry departing to the five design modern actentific lines.

To the faculty of Arts and Sciences: The retirement of Dr. Wooley made it necessary for us to lare a new appointment in German and to this post Professor J. F. Coar was appointed. Before coming to us Dr. Coar occupied important positions both in America and Europe in the department of Germanic language and literature.

The absence of Dr. Boyle in England

F. Coar was appointed, before coming in sport in America and Europe in the department of Germanic language and literature.

The absence of Dr. Boyle in England where he is conducting research work under the British Admirally made it necessary for us to secure some one to fill this post for the time being. Dr. Philo I'. Hamond was appointed to the department of physic, Dr. Hammond comes from the Leland Stanford University, California, It's will remain with us for another year.

Mr. William Berry, a graduate of the cown University also received a temporary appointment, taking part of the work conducted by Capit. Merfandaran, who last spring joined the 196th battallon.

In the department of History, Mr. T. Marsden, B.A. Cambridge, was appointed the year for work in connection with the work will mention the following:

Dr. Killam was appointed a licutemate in command of the new draft to reinforce the 186th battallon.

Mr. A. Cameron left as to undertake munition work in connection with the munitions board.

Since we last met the 196th battallon board.

Mr. W. D. Cromarty, who had been acting professor of architecture left us diso to do work with the munition board.

Mr. W. D. Cromarty, who had been acting professor of architecture left us diso to do work with the munition board.

Since we last met the 196th battallon raised by the four Western Universities went overseas and is now in the fighting line on the Soume. Many entitaments have taken place during the year, the students going to the 78th Battery, the draft for the 196th, and the Army Medical Cope.

Our honor roll to date numbers, including students and staff, approximately 200. In addition to our own humediate hour roll more than the equivalent of company joined the various University of Alberta. These men came very largely from the high schools and institutions of articles which have relations of artility of Alberta men in the war, in addition to the number of men who took officers appointment at the beginning and those who went from us to take commissions

Ching 1. Scholarship.

In spite of the disturbing conditious under which we are for the moment living, we have striven and, I believe, sueceded in maintaining our normal standard of scholarship so far. On account of the absence of many of the old and tried members of the staff we have during the past year had to redistribute the work so as to us the minimum of new assistance. This has made the work of the individual member of the staff wore onerous on the Discipline.

With regard to discipline, it seems only becossary to say that the committee on student affairs have not had before them this year a sligle case of indiscipline recirring action on their part. The absence of the senior students from the University was a source of some anxiety to us as the student discipline is so largely in the student discipline is so largely in the pusonal appeal on two occasions concenting maters which we regarded as needing attention was sufficient to bring about a loyal response to our regulations from even the most immature student. It is possible for the flinger who has four fingers and a thumb to get a slight reverse curve—but he doesn't try it in a game! The delivery either must be too slow and the break of the ball too slight, or else that this knuckle, sticking up like an Egyptian Eyramid, is too likely to cause a wild pitch.

Government Legislation to Protect Property of Infants Takes Effect

The province of Alberta now has an official guardian. The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council has appointed Arthur G. Browning, K.C., deputy attorney general, of Edmonton, to be official guardian under the Act, with the powers and duties therein specified. The Government deemed legislation advisable to protect the prothe powers and duties therein specified. The Government deemed legislation advisable to protect the property of infants as well as, and in addition to, the protection afforded to their persons under the Children's Protection Act. The Official Guardian Act, 1917 (c.19) enables this to be done. Section 4 provides as follows:

The official guardian may: (a) Act as guardian ad litem of infants; (b) Act in the administration of estates upon order of the court; (c) Act as custodian of property of missing persons, convicts or deceased persons; (d) Act as judicial trustee of the estate of any deceased person upon the order of the court; (e) Act as guardian of any infant made ward of the court under the Children's Protection Act, being Chapter 12 of the Stautes of 1909; (f) Act in such other capacity and do such place acts, mailters and things, as an

Chapter 12 of the Statutes of 1995; (1) Act in such other capacity and do such other acts, matters, and things, as an official guardian is authorized or re-quired to do by the rules of court or by order of a judge or by order of the utenant-Governor-in-Council or under the Act.

by order of a judge or by order of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council or under the Act.

These powers are very wide in their application and, in order that every assistance possible be given to the Official Guardian to carry them out, the Act provides he shall be served with notice of every application to any court in any manner affecting the infant or his estate. Full particulars must be given showing the object of the application and the effect it will have on the estate of the infant. Executors and administrators can be compelled to pass their accounts as required by law. Trust estates can be audited and dealings therewith investigated. Actions and proceedings where the infant is a party can be conducted by the Official Guardian on behalf of the infant, and generally he is authorized to take all such proceedings as may be deemed necessary for the protection of the estate of the infant. The Act does not in any way interfere with the rights of any parties at present or in the future, who are acting legally as guardian of any infant, but in cases where the infant's property seems likely to be endangered the Official Guardian will be able to intervene. Orders under the Act can be enforced by attachment. He will at all time be available for consultations and advice where the estate of any infant is affected. All correspondence should be addressed to The Official Guardian, the Attorney General's Department, Edmonton, Alta.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and It's Lustre to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly, that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth, Grayhaired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

FRIDAY, MAY 4, 1917

For twenty years Canadians have been wondering and worrying over the railway building genius of Mackenzle and Mann, alternately moved by amazement at the railway system that genius was building up and by apprehension as to what the outcome of it all would be. The report of the Railway Investigating Commission is such as to accentuate the amazement without removing the apprehension. That two men, starting with nothing, should build a transcontinental railway and a great system of feeders with public money, themselves retaining the ownership of the concern, and when faced with bankruptey should be found to be the only parties in the country who do not need to care what happens, is something of an achievement.

The majority report of the Commission is a recommendation that the Government take over the Grand Trunk railway system, the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the Canadian Northern, link these with the National Transcontinental and the Intercolonial into one vast public-owned system, and then put the management of this as far out of reach of the public as conveniently possible. The minority report recommends that the public simply go on handing hard bargain with their all-sacriout money to meet the deficit of the distressed companies, and of the tariff privilege Canada Whatever the public may think of the majority report it is pretty certain that they will think less of the alternative. It may be taken that so far as public opinion goes we have come to the parting of the ways in railway matters; and the ways in railway matters; and that hereafter either those who own the railways will have to find the money or else the people who provide the money will own the railways.

Obviously the proposition to take over three large railway systems and link them with two public-owned roads into a vast enterprise for which the public have to become financially responible, and then to undertake to run this system in competition with the C.P.R., is a somewhat large order, and one which will stand some thinking about. Offhand expressions of immature opinions are only likely to create prejudices and pre-conceptions which would hinder a candid view of a question of tremendous importance. It may be assumed that our experience with Governmentownership of railways has not so enamoured the people of Canada with the theory that they will disregard the material facts, and the very possible consequences, involved in this comprehensive proposal. If the scheme is to be urged upon them for acceptance that will have to be done, not by declamations of the alleged blessings of Government ownership in general, but by convincing demonstration that Government ownership in this particular case is de-cidedly the lesser of two or more

With flour at present prices, paste jewels are no longer to be sneered at as cheap substitutes for the genuine article.

A correspondent calls attention to the case of a soldier's wife whose patriotic fund allowance has been cut down from ten dollars per month to five, says he has read the original correspondence in the case, and is convinced that the woman is not being treated fairly. That is a case which the officials of the fund would do well to take up, investigate, and make some statement which would put the matter clearly before the public. People are, and ought to be, deeply concerned that the dependents of the men at the front be dealt with in a way which can leave no feeling of injustice. Our obligations to the soldier's wife are as sacred as any obligation can be. For that reason a report of this kind, correct or not correct, must have a considerable effect upon the disposition of the public toward the fund when appeals are made for more contributions. is better in such cases to take the public fully into confidence than to leave them to gather impressions otherwise.

Nineteen years ago Canada

gave to the people of Great Britain the privilege of sending their products into Canada at twentyfive per cent, less duty than was charged on goods brought into Canada from any other country. There were no strings attached to that act of patriotic preference. Canada did not demand then that the people of Great Britain buy a preference in the Canadian market by imposing a tax upon themselves for goods imported elsewhere than from Canada. Two years ago the Borden Government increased by twenty-five per cent. the tax levied upon British goods mported into Canada; at a time when the British people were pouring out money like water to save the Empire from destruction and needed oversea markets for their goods as they had never needed them before. Now Sir Robert Borden is spending his time in England, giving his assistance to an attempt to impose a tariff upon the people of Great Britain in return for preferential entry to the markets of the oversea Dominions. That looks unpleasantly like an attempt on the part of our Premier to haggle with the sorely afflicted British people for a price for the restoration of the privilege of sending British goods into Canada at the rate established nineteen years ago. At a 'time when the British Government has to go to a foreign country to borrow money to save Canada from being pillaged by the Huns, Canada's Premier ought to be able to find some more creditable employment than misrepresenting his countrymen as a nation of heartless ingrates who seek to drive a ficing kinsmen for the restoration freely gave them nineteen years ago and which Sir Robert Borden

FORM OF GOV'T.

Paris, May 3—The congress of Hellenic colonies, representing the most influential Greek residents in France, England, the United States and all paris of the world, at a meeting in Paris have decided to issue a declaration to the powers protecting Greece—France, England and Russia—that they are convinced King Constantine by his unconcealed pro-German policy is hurrying Greece to certain ruin. The congress places entire confidence in the Venizelos government.

The declaration contains grave charges against the princes of the Greek royal family. It accuses them of visiting London, Paris, Petrogradian Berlin for the purpose of intriguing aganst the government of Greece and quotes the words of the heir apparent, Prince George, to his regiment on the eve of the Athenian vespers, "Don't leave a single Frenchman alive on Greek soil."

The declaration concluded by demanding the expulsion of King Constantine and all his dynasty, affirming that the monarchial system is impossible in Greece. For the future turged a republic as the only form of government in conformity with the national traditions of Greece and requests the protecting powers to recognize the Hellenic republic as soon as it is proclaimed by a constituent assembly.

TWO BATTALIONS OF CLERKS.

Montreal. May 3.—The Gazette's correspondent in Ottawa telegraphs that according to a return tabled yesterday by the minister of milita there are now 2.078 temporary and permanent employees in the military department; in 1911 the number was only 103. War business accounts for the increase, some of the new branches having the following employees: Separation allowance, 604; record effice, 643; estates branch, 31.

Dr. Harvey Wley, famous food expert, of the United States, says that the biggest war work in which the women of this continent can engage at this moment is to demand whole wheat flour. The flours are about alike as to price, but in turning wheat into white flour "to millers discard 28 per cent of the wheat. Over a quarter of the wheat crop is lost as human food because we demand flour as white as possible. In other words, if the women demanded whole wheat instead of white flour, they would save to this continent between 90,090,091 and 100,000,000 bushels of wheat per year.

TO REPUDIATE PROMISE OF THE FORMER GOV'T.

Dominion Trust Co. Depositors Protected Only if Bonding Co. Makes Good

Victoria, B.C., May 3—A policy which if carried into effect will virtually amount to repudiation of the promise made by the late government to depositors of the Dominion Trust company, was caunclaited by Attorney-General MacDonald last night in the legislature when he indicated that only in the event of a decision favorable to the government in the pending action against the bonding companies to recover the amount of the two bonds, one for $290,000, and the other of $50,000, given on the defunct company to the government to secure the depositors, would the depositors secure anything from that source.

The late government made the definite promise that even if by virtue of some technicality the bonding companies might escape their liability, the government would, in virtue of the great hardship that would thereby be imposed upon the depositors through failure of that source of compensation for their losses, put up the amount of the bonds to be divided among the depositors.

London, May 3—In the House of Lords today the Archbishop of Canterbury raised the question of the recent bombing of Freiburg, by French and English aviators in retaliation for outrages perpetrated by the German fleet. The archbishop declared there was a strong feeling throughout the entire country against such reprisals. Earl Curzon of Kedleston, member of the war council, replying for the government said that after the "abominable outrage" against the hospital ship Asturia, the war cabiact had decided to execute the threat of reprisals made in January.

"We consulted the French upon the matter," Earl Curzon continued, "and they hearthy approved of the plan and expressed a desire to co-operate. The government, however, consulted the imperial war conference which also concurred, and it was also decided that no reprisals would be undertaken after this if the Germans coased their attacks on hospital ships."

Earl Curzon said the French had abnounced they would embark German prisoners on their hospital ships.

RURAL SCHOOLS SPITE OF MANY DIFFICULTIES

Hon. J. R. Boyle Tells of Work of Providing Qualified

"In spite of the difficulty of providing teachers for Alberta's constantly increasing number or rural schools this type of school is doing splendidsays Hon. J. R. Boyle, minister of education.

A census taken this week by the A census taken this week by the registrar's branch of the department reveals some interesting facts in this connection. Of 1,792 rural schools reported open at the present time, 425 have opened much earlier this year than they did last. Of this number eight have opened one month earlier, 124 have opened two months earlier, 58 have opened three months earlier, and 42 have opened which did not operate at all for the first term of 1916. This does not include new districts in which no school houses were built last year.

Prospects Good.

These figures indicate a growing demand for yearly schools on the part of rural school communities and an mand for yearly schools on the part of rural school communities and an increasing determination on the part of school trustees to live up to the letter of the law in this regard. So far as the supply of teachers is concerned, Mr. Boyle says that the outlook in this respect has never been better in any year than it is for 1917. Despite the heavy enlistment of Alberta male teachers, new sources of supply from which to fill up the gaps in the teaching profession have presented themselves. First and foremost must be mentioned the large number of former teachers (many of whom are now soldiers' wives) who were lost to the profession through marriage, but who now, at the call of duty, have come forward to take up their old work again. These teachers are doing a work of real patriotism, many of them at great personal inconvenience, and when the history of rural school education for 1917 is written, it will be found how large a share in its success was due to the married women teachers who have so well filled the places of those who are temporarily out of the profession on "active service."

"active service."

U.S. Teachers.
Another factor in the supply of teachers is the increased interest being shown in the teaching profession in Alberta by United States teachers. "We are receiving a fine body of highly qualified normal trained teachers from across the border," says the minister, and as most of them possess considerable rural school experience, their success as teachers in Alberta is assured. A brief course in British and Canadian history, Canadian civics, the geography of the British Empire and school laws and regulations of Alberta, is all that these teachers require to fit them for doing splendid work in the rural schools throughout the prohe rural schools throughout the pro vince.

The supply of teachers qualified in The supply of teachers qualified in other provinces naturally shows a slight decrease, but there are still a considerable number of teachers available from this source, and these, with the graduates from our own normal schools at Calgary and Camrose, will fill all the more desirable rural schools.

Rural Schools

Rural Schools.

There yet remains the problem of the outlying rural schools, and it is probably in this class of school more than any other that the prospect looks brightest. These schools, owing to their distance from the railway, do not appeal to the qualified teachers so long as more readily accessible schools are available. In order, therefore, to have these schools supplied with teachers during the summer at loss, the policy of the minister is to grant permits to students of the University of Alberta in the first instance, and when this source of supply falls, to students from the universities of the other provinces. The supply of this class of teachers for 1917 promises to surpass the supply of former years. class of teachers for 1917 promises to surpass the supply of former years. Aiready the department has under consideration applications for over 290 permits, and at the close of the session at the various universities, Mr. Boyle says that there will be very few schools without teachers. The department's slogan for 1917 is: "A teacher for every rural school," and no effort is being spared to realize this ambition.

TRANSPORT IS SUNK: MANY ARE DROWNED

London, May 3-The British transport Arcadian was sunk by a submarine April 15. It is believed 279 men were drowned.

The Arcadian, 8,939 tons, was 500 feet long and was built in 1899. She was taken over by the British admiralty early in the war.

PERFECT HARMONY EXISTING BETWEEN BERLIN AND VIENNA

London, May 3-The conference in Vlenna between Count von Hertling Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, show that a perfect agreement continues between Berlin and Vienna reto a semi-official telegram from

The Vienna cabinet, adds the message, realizes that the German newspapers' criticisms are merely expressions of private opinion and it "insists that Germany and Austria must hold together to the end as otherwise no good will accrue for either power in the future."

SIR THOMAS PRESSED BUTTON.

SIR THOMAS PRESSED BUTTON.

Ottawa, May 2—At 7.30 this evening (4.30 Pacific time) Sir Thomas White, acting prime minister, officially opened a monster patriotic carnival at Vancouver, The scene of the function was connected with Ottawa by wire and the pressing of the button opened the carnival by the "afurling of flags and the ringing of bells. The carnival is being held under the auspices of the British Columbia Commercial Travellers and will run for four days, the proceeds to be devoted to Canadian Red Cross, Canadian Patriotic, Returned Soldiers and Naval Relief funds, The minister of finance sent a message of greetings.

CHICAGO, May 3.—Loftiest prices yet in the wheat market here resulted today from purchases that appeared to be largely for seaboard account and this followed announcement of arrangements which seemed to ladicate the fullure of censership methods to keep down quotations at Winniper. The market here closed nerrous, 3½ to 10½ not higher, with May at, 280 and July at 225% to 224½. Corn gained 1½ to 2¾, and oats ½ to ½. In provisions the outcome was a sethack of 5 to 30 cents. Except for some brief laterruptions during the first half of the day the advance of the wheat market throughout the session was continuous and rapid. The earlier upturns were mainly in the nature of further responses to the disappearance of peace prospects, wacress the passing bearish reactions were associated with a ramor that lack of sufficient food had caused wholesale desertions from the German army. However, persistent advertising of a world-wide satoriage of supplies had tended to intimidate sellers, and when demand for the May delivery here became noticeably more active than has of late been the case, the market as a whole ascended with but little or no check. Word that undergrade wheat would be accepted in part satisfaction of contracts at Winniper was taken as evidence that any big shipments of good Canadian wheat to Chicago soon were out of the question and that the scantiness of sucks here would receive no timely relief. Scarcity of contract wheat for immediate delivery in Chicago was emphasized by the payment of $8.14 a bushel, the topmost price on record. Any options also reached the highest point ever knewn, $2.50, and at the cond of the day were still boiding that figure. The top noteh was attained on the purchase of 500,000 business of May for a house identified with seaboard interests. HIGHEST MARK YET

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Winnipeg, May 3.—The wildest of all wild mornings in the grain exchange came to a close with a fluctuation of 20% in Winnipeg May wheat. May closed finally if tunder the high and July 7c under the high and furious while it insted.

Winnipeg market closed with May 13%c higher, July 15%c up and October 44%c up. Oats closed 6½c higher for May, %c for July and ½c up for October. Barley closed Minneapolis closed 16%c higher for May, 7c up for July and 54%c up for September. Each new day in the past ten days has brought its problems, but they found their climax in the market conditions this morning. It had been hoped that the arrangement made oversight would bring relief. WINNIPEG GRAIN.

taken off October and confirmed only by May and July.

As the morning advanced, however, tension advanced also, for apparently the trade had to have May wheat for legitimate orders. At one jump the price went from 282 to 3.00, at which 5.000 bushels were sold, and from that went rapidly to $5.05. The representative of the Royal Commission was asked by the grain exchange officials to do something, it being understood that earlier in the day he had cabled for authority to sell of the trovernment boldings in May and July wheat, but the situation was so argent that presumably without definite authority he stepped in and sold sufficient to ease the market from 15 to 19 cents a bushel for May and July.

The tension was indicated by the number of prominent bankers who spent the morning on the floor.
A notice was posted on the floor today to the effect that for the future only censorred trades would be permitted in May and July wheat. Ther was no very marked change in the immediate situation, notnuly because of the new grangement entered into yesterday whereby the Government agent agreed to buy lower grades and give back May.

crican Enthusiasm.

Paris, May 3—Jules Cambon, general secretary to the ministry of foreign affairs, in the course of an address today said that the French government and public opinion in Franca had been deeply touched by the reception that had been given in the United States to.M., Viviani and Marshal Joffre.

Concerning the extent of losses from submarines, M. Cambon said: "There is no occasion to be pessimistic over the submarine menuce, which is now receiving sitention from the Americans. It is foreseen that American energy and precision will again aid effectively in that and in the settlement of the question of feeding and of freight, It is not doubted that the end of the submarines is in sight."

With his option signed and the task squarely confronting him, he realized with fresh force its bigness and the weight of responsibility that residue upon his shoulders. He began the most dramatic struggle of his career, a fight against untried conditions, a desperate race against the seasons, with ruth as the penalty of defeat. The channel of the Salmon at the point is fifteen hundred feel it holls at the most current; in other words, the waters race by with the speed of a running man. Over this O'Nell expected to suspend a structure capable of withertanding the mightiest strains to which any bridge had ever been subjected. Parker's plans called fresholds and mine million pounds of steel, every part of which must be labricated to a careful pattern. I was a man-sized job, and O'Nell and the had all had be done the materials with such extraordinary care. Supplies were arriving now in car-loads, in train-loads, in the continuous stream, any interruption of which meant confusion and scrious loss of time. The most of skilled men. He had point, but he now oblitering to this point, but he now obliters, in the point, but he now obliters in the point, but he now obliters and the spectal pattern in the point, but he now obliters in the point, but he and the steel bridge members came from Pennsylvania.

The piers at Omar grouned beneath the cargoes that were belehed from the big freighters—incidentally, "Happy Tom" slater likewise grouned beneath his burdens as superintendent of transportation. At the glaciers a city as large as Omar sprang up, a city with electric lights, power-houses, machine shops, freight yards, and long rows of winter quarters. It lay belind ramparts of coal, or grillage timbers and piling, of shedded cement barrels, and tons of steel. Over if the winter shows sifted, the north winds howled, and the arctic cold deepened.

Here, locked in a mountain fastness more than a thousand miles from his base of supplies, O'Neil began the declaive struggle of his life. Here, at the focusing point of his enterprise, in the white heat of the battle, he spent his time, heedless of every other interest or consideration. The shifts were lengthened, wages were increasind, a system of bonuses was adopted. Only picked men were given places, but of these there were hundreds; over them the grim-faced Mollen brooded, with the fevered eyes of a fanate and a tongue of fame. Wherever possible the men were sheltered, and steam-pipes were run to guard against the cold; but most of the labor was, of necessity, performed in the open and under trying conditions. At times the wind blew a hurricane; always there was the bitter cold. Men toiled until their flesh froze and their tests slipped from their fingers, then toiled until their flesh froze and their teols slipped from their fingers, then tragged themselves stifly into huts and warmed themselves for further effort. They worked amia a boiling snow-smother that hid them from view, while gravel and fine icc cut their faces like knives; or again, on still, sharp days when the touch of anetal was like the bite of fangs and echoes filled the valley to the brim with an emity classification. I had been dechoes filled the valley to the brim with an emity classification. community: but the man's patent emclew, while gravel and fine ice cut their faces like knives; or again, on still, sharp days when the touch of inetal was like the bite of fangs and echoes filled the valley to the brim with an empty clanging. But they were no ordinerty fellows—no chaft to drift with the wind; they were men toughened by exposure to the breath of the north, men winnowed out from many thousands of their kind. Nor were they driven; they were led. Mellen was amongst them constantly; so was the soft-volced, smiling larker, not to mention O'Neil with his cheery laugh and his words of praise. Yet it often was hard to keep the work moving at all; for steam condensed in the crimders, valves were kept open only by the use of hot cloths; then, too, the snow crept upward steadily, gleathily, until it lay in heavy drifts which nearly hid the little town and changed its streets to miniature canyons. canyons.

A New Crisis

With the completion of the railroad to the glacier crossing there came to it a certain amount of travel, consisting mainly of prospectors bound to and from the interior. The Cortex winter trail was open, and over it passed most of the traffic from the northward mining-camps, but now and then a frost-rimed stranger emerged from the canyon above o'Neil's terminus with tales of the gold country, or a venturesome sledgo party snow-shoed its way inland from the end of the track. Murray made a point of hauling these trailers on his construction-trains and of feeding them in his camps as freely as he did his own men. In time the wavering line of sled-tracks became fairly well broken, and searcely a week ing line of sled-tracks became fairly well broken, and scarcely a week bassed without bringing several "mushers."

One day, as O'Neil was picking his very through the outskirts of the camp, he encountered one of his night foremen, and was surprised to see that the fellow was leading a trail-of a bunk-house he found other members of the night crew falking earnestly with two lately arrived strangers. They fell silent as he approached and responded to his greeting with a peculiar nervous eugerness, staring after him curiously as he passed them. He expected Dr. Gray out from Omar, but as he neared the track he met Mellen. The bridge superintendent engaged him briefly upon some detail, then said:

"I don't know what's the matter with the men this morning. They're loading."

"Loafing? Nonsense! You expect oo much Mellen shook his head. "The min-

Mellen shook his head. "The minute my back is turned they begin to gossly. I had to call them down," "Perhaps they want a holiday." "They're not trast kind. There's something in the air." While they were speaking the morning train pulled in, and O'Neil was surprised to see at least a dozen townspeeple descending from it. They were loafers, sulcon-frequenters, for the most part, and, oddly enough, they had with them dogs and sleds and all the equipment for travel. He was prevented from making inquiry, however, by a shout from Dr. Gray, who cried: "Hey, chief! Look who's here!" O'Neil hastened forward with a greeting upon his lips, for Stanley was helping Eliza and Natalie down from the caboose which served as a passenger-coach.

Gray nodded. "He won't mind me. I hope you'il abuse him well. Go at him hammer and tonga."

"Probably he's too busy to chew his food. We'll make him Fletcherize—"

"And eat soup. Then we'll mend his underclothes. I'll warrant he doesn't dress properly."

"How much sleep does he set?"

Natalle queried of the physician.

"About half as much as he needs,"

"Leave him to us," said Eliza, grimly. "Now where does he live?"

We'll start in there."

O'Neil protested faintly. "Please don't! I hate soup, and I can't allow anybody to pry linto my wardrobe. It won't stand inspection."

Miss Appleton pointed to his feet and asked crimity.

Natalie was shocked. "One pair of socks in this cold! It's time we took a hand. Now lead us to this rabbithole where you live."
Reluctantly, yet with an unaccustomed warmth about his heart, O'Neil escorted them to his headquarters.

Neil escorted them to his headquarters. It was a sharp, clear morning: the sky was as empty and bright as an upturned saucepan; against it the soaring mountain geaks stood out as if carved from new ivory. The glaciers to right and left were mute and motionless in the grip of that force which alone had power to check them; the turbulent river was hidden beneath a case-hardened armor; the lake, with its weird flottila of revolving bergs, was matted with a broad expanse of white, across which meandered dim sled and snow-shee trails. Underfoot the paths gave out a crisp complaint, the sunlight slanting up Underfoot the paths gave out a crisp complaint, the sunlight slanting up the valley held no warmth whatever, and their breath hung about the heads like vapor, cyrstallizing upon the fur of their caps and hoods.

Today We Celebrate

The movement for the presedvation and study of bird life in America may be said to have begun in the early part of the last century, through the untiring efforts of John James Audubon, who was born near New Oricans on May 4, 1780. Early in life he developed a fondness for nature, and he devoted himself to its study all his life. Audubon, is his name implies, was of French descent, and at an early age he was sent to Paris to study. When he returned to his native land he settled on a farm near Philadelphia. He married and engaged in trade, but his fondness for the forest soon made him abandon this, and he spent most of his time in the south native land his leaving a stated him considerably in his work of recording bird life, and in 1828 he published his first volume with profuse illustrations. This was after he had set out with his wife and child and had descended the Ohic River, roaming the forest for drawing the birds which he shot. He exhibited his works in England and Scotland. The crowning effort of his life was the publishing of his "The Birds of America," in four volumes, which is today considered the standard work on the subject of our bird life. The Government of the United States recognized the value of Audubon's work, and gave him the use of a vessel which he used in exploring the consts of Florida and Texas. The great naturalist died at his home in New York on January 27, 1851.

Today's Anniversaries

It is curious to think of it today, but on this day in the year 1702 war was declared against France and Spain by England, Germany and Hol-land.

land. A great event in the conquest of India by the British took place on May 4, 1799, when Seringapatam, a city of Hindoostan, fell before General Harris. Tipoo Sahib, most powerful of Indian potentates, was slain and with him 8,000 of his men. Within the city the British captured 3,000 pounds in gold and 2,000 cannon.

Adventures of Uncle Wigoily

Uncle Wiggily and the Mosquito

Copyright, 1917, by McClure News-paper Syndicate.

"Here you are, Uncle Wiggily!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, to the rability gentleman, as he started away from his hollow stump bungalow one morning. "I've made a new one for you."

morning. "I've made a new one for you."

"A rew what?" asked Mr. Longears, twinkling his pink nose like a question mark standing on its head. "What's new?"

"Pve gnawed a new rhoumatism crutch for you out of a cornstalk," said Nurse Jane. "Your old one was getting worn out, and as it is spring now you ought to have a new crutch to go with your new fur sait."

"That's very nice and kind of you." said Uncle Wiggliy with a polite blow. "I'm sure, with the new crutch, I'll have a new adventure. I thank you."

Then, leaving his old rheumatism crutch on the front steps of his hollow stump bungalow Uncle Wiggliy hopped off on the new one. Over the fields and through the woods he went looking for an adventure, and pretty soon he stopped to rost in the shade of some trees.

He sat down on a log, and, before he he stopped to rest in the snade or some trees.

He sat down on a log, and, before he knew it he fell asleep, and pretty soon he was awakened by hearing a sort of buzzing sound in the air, like an electric fan. Then he heard a voice saying: "Weli! Dd you ever hear the like of "Well! Dd you ever hear the like of that?"

"The like of what?"
"Why, I've spent the last five minutes." said the first buzzing voice, "trying to bore a hole in the leg of that rabbit gentleman there, to get a nice bite to eat, and after I had bored and drilled and sawed and picked I found I was making a hole in his cornstalk crutch instead of one of his legs. It's so provoking!"

cornstalk crutch instead of one of his legs. It's so provoking!"
"Isn't it!" said the other, and then Uncle Wiggliy opened his eyes and he saw two mosquito ladies talking together on the log beside him. "You wasted all your time."
"And that isn't the worst," said the first mosquito lady in a buzzing way. "My bill is so dull, from trying to bits into his cornstalk crutch, that it isn't sharp enough to bite into a real leg now."

"My bill is so duil, from trying to one into his cornstalk crutch, that it isn't sharp enough to bite into a real leg now."

"That is too bad!" said the second mosquito lady. "Only that I have just had a good meal off Nannie Wagtail, a little goat girl who bassed by a while ago. I'd bite the' rabbit myself. But I'm not a bit hungry."

"And I'll have to wait until my bill grows sharp again," said the first mosquito lady. "Then I'll have a good meal from one of his regular legs. I don't see why he has three—one made of a cornstalk."

"That third leg is his theumatism crutch," spoke the second mosquito lady. "His muskrat lady housekeeper gnawed it out of a cornstalk for him and painted it red, white and blue like a barber pole."

"Well. I'll know better than to try to bite it next time," said the one whose bill was all dull. Then the two mosquito ladies flew away and Uncle Wiggily got up.

"That's to bad!" he said to himself. "It was not nice to play such a trick though really it wasn't my fault. I wonder how I can do that mosquito lady a favor, to pay her back for having disappointed her so?"

Uncle Wiggily thought and thought of a way, and off he honned—not to the barber show but to another store where he bought something, and the next day he went to the woods again. "Now," said the bunny uncle to himself, "I'll go to sleep on this log as I did before, and when that mosquito lady comes along—well, we'll see what happens."

He closed his eyes, and pretended to sleep, and pretty gon he heard a buzzing sound. Then he felt something alight gently on one of his real legs, and with his eyes he saw that it was the disappointed mosquito lady.

And Uncle Wiggily also saw another or a third mosquito lady perched on his cornstalk rheumatism crutch, where she began with her bill to saw, dig and bore a hole so, as she thought.

or a third mosquite lady perched on his cornstalk rheumatism crutch where she began with her bill to saw dig and bore a hole so, as she thought, she might get something good to eat. "Oh, my goodness, Susanna" cried "Oh, my goodness, Susanna" cried the mosquito lady, who was getting ready to bite Uncle Wiegly's real leg. "Don't be so foolish as to drill there!" "Why not? It looks like a very pretty leg. Rather thin, to be sure, but crians fought valiantly for Margaret and Prince Edward, but were overwhelmed by the forces or the York partisans under the leadership of the Dukes of Gloucester and Clarence. When Margaret saw that defeat was inevitable, she altempted flight to save her son, but was captured. Edward was murdered-on the spot. This occurred May 4, 1471.

Sidelights on the War

THE SITUATION IN RUSSIA.

What is the true state of affairs in Russia? That is the question which is keeping statesmen all over Europe awake at night. There is very little news from the great land which has just thrown off the shackles of tyranny, but in this case little news does not necessarily mean good news, the Czar is out, we know that. But will the present government be able to control the masses? The fight in Russia today is between those who would have a government formed on our own lines, and those who, mistaking liberty for licence, want no restraint whatever or yeant everybody to have a voice in the government all at once. For that reason we hear of such things as soldiers' deputies demanding this and that, and workmen's deputies demanding this and that, and workmen's deputied semanding this and that, and workmen's deputied semanding this and that, and workmen's deputied semanding the same to be no definite plan. Things are going along, and meanwhile there is suspicion abroad that seerest forces are working for the from the great suspicion abroad that seerest forces are working for the free training to have a control of the masses of the control of the masses the speed with which the revolution was brought about. On the other hand, there seems to be no definite plan. Things are going along, and meanwhile there is suspicion abroad that seerest forces are working for the return to power of the Crar, now imprisoned. The plot to restore the monarch is said to have the backing of the Germans, who are at the same time trying to make a separate peace through the influence of the Socialists.

so prettily striped, like a stle candy."

"Oh, don't bite it," said the pointed mosquito lady. It's ma a sort of wood, and you'll dull bill and—"

But just then the other mo cried out:

"Oh, I've punctured it! I've dr hole in it. And what a delicio of sweet candy luice I'm getting, on, have some. Talk about it not a real leg—why it's the nicest I've had this spring! Yum-yum! And the disappointed mosquit saw her friend having a fine in Uncle Wiggliy's cornstalk rheun crutch, out of which some sweet was flowing.

"Why, how is this?" asked the mosquito, whose dull bill had sharp again, "I never knew it good to bite a rabbit gentle wooden leg or his rheun crutch."

"It is when there is sweet mo inside the hollow cornstalk rhitsm crutch!" laughed Uncle was he sat up, twinkling his pink "You see I felt sorry that yo wasted your time in trying to hole in my wooden-like crutch Mosquito. So I went to the sto I'vad the monkey-doodle gentlem the hollow in my crutch with molasses."

"And when I bored a hole got some of the molasses," salesses," salesses," salesses," salesses," salesses, "salesses," salesses," salesses, "salesses," salesses, "salesses, "salesse

"And when I bored a hole got some of the molasses," sale second mosquito.

"Exactly," 'answered Uncle W "And your friend is welcome to also."

And so the mosquitoes, ever that, bit Uncle Wigglly's rheur crutch, leaving his real legs alo which he was very thankful. teaches us that we may learn thing, even from a bug, and is kitten doesn't chase its tail cellar and leave it under the W for the clothespin to play with shall next hear of Uncle Wiggill Buddy's wagon.
